CHAMPION ATHLETES HONORED AT DINNER

Antioch Basketball Team Guests of A. B. C. Monday Night.

Coach L. R. Watson and his tournament champs, members of the Antioch high school basketball team who won the trophy here last Saturday night by defeating Arlington Heights, were guests of honor at the dinner of the Antioch Business Club at Parish Hall Monday night. It was altogether fitting and appropriate that a representative local organization should pay tribute to those who have brought honor to the local school and community. After finishing the fine meal served by the ladies of the parish, President Aht, on behalf of the business club, complimented the coach and his winning team and Mr. Watson was asked to take the floor.

After a brief talk Coach Watson called the names of the players present and each young husky received a hearty round of applause when he arose for introduction. Members of the champion team present were: Captain Wilson, Spicer, Shunnesson, Steininger, Simpson, Schwenk, Nixon and Bironoff, Murrie and Mitchell were absent.

Map Project Discussed.

Mapping the lakes region with the idea of acquainting travelers with this locality and its advantages came in for a good round of discussion and many good features were suggested. In fact so many were mentioned that the matter began to get confusing and upon motion it was decided to leave the entire matter up to Chairman Frank R. King and his committee, as was originally intended. Rev. Kral, appointed chief draftsman, submitted his first map of the region for alteration, addition or correction. The map is drawn accurate to scale and the pastor's work seemed to be very good.

Great Interest in Route 173.

Great interest was shown in preliminary work for the early construction of state route No. 173. Supervisor Ed. Martin, of Benton township was present and explained what had been done in the interest of the road in that section. Mr. Martin seeks, through obtaining resolutions from the Antioch Business Club and other organizations, to interest the county board of supervisors, who will take the matter up with the highway department of Springfield, he hopes.

Milk Plant Purchased.

The Broxham dairy property here has been purchased, the initial payment having been made on Feb. 17, the expiration date of the option obtained some weeks ago. The deal was consummated by Messrs. Aht, Williams and Shults, who are holding the property to ascertain just what action is to be taken by the dairymen of this locality. Concerted action by the farmers will assure the opening of the plant here April 1, President Aht said, and it is hoped that the dairymen of the vicinity will avail themselves of the opportunity.

LAST HOME GAME SATURDAY NIGHT

On Saturday night of this week Warren Township High School comes here for the locals last home game before the District Tournament.

Warren defeated Antioch early in the season at Warren and they are out to repeat. They think we were lucky in winning from them in the tournament and they will be playing a much better game Saturday night.

Antioch must win this game in order to gain a tie with Palatine in the conference race for championship so the people who attend will see a good hard fought battle.

Palatine 34, Libertyville 17. In the play-off game to decide third place Palatine had an easy time winning from Libertyville to the tune of 34 to 17.

Mrs. Rose Hockney is spending a few weeks at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Barter, at Pleasant Prairie.

Prominent Speaker to Address P. T. A.

The Antioch Parent-Teacher association will have the honor of hearing Mrs. J. E. Edmonds of the Illinois Council of Parent-Teacher associations, and also regional director of Cook and Lake counties, at the next regular meeting to be held at the grade school building next Monday night, March 7.

The local officers are asking the attendance of all members and others interested in educational work. Contests to Feature Meeting.

Of information that may be obtained from the dictionary as well as speed and accuracy in its use. Those who remember the laborious searching for words which was our introduction to the dictionary will appreciate the well-worked-out course by which pupils now master its use. There will be a preliminary written contest followed by an exciting speed contest which will furnish enjoyment to participants and onlookers alike.

At this meeting there will be given a dictionary contest by the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades, and a spelling contest by the sixth grade. Both contests will give parents an opportunity to observe work as it is done in school.

The spelling contest will be similar to the old-time spelling bee to which many people attribute their ability to spell. These spell-downs have been held weekly in the fifth and sixth grade room, and the enthusiasm and rivalry which they have awakened have done much to improve the spelling average.

The seventh and eighth grade will demonstrate the various kinds.

ANTIOCH TEAM WINS TOURNAMENT TROPHY

Local Lads Clinch Victory by Mauling Heights, 40 to 37, in Final Game.

ANTIOCH PLAYERS SELECTED ON ALL TOURNAMENT TEAMS

Fighting their way to three hard earned victories, the Antioch township high school basketball team proved itself the best in the Northwest Conference by defeating Arlington Heights, 40 to 37, in the final game of the tourney played here Saturday night before a great crowd of enthusiastic rooters. In previous tournament games Antioch had upset Warren 21 to 18, and Palatine, 37 to 19, thus earning their chance in the finals and the opportunity of winning the beautiful trophy.

The preliminary tournament games were played Friday afternoon and evening at Gurnee and Barrington. Palatine winning over Leyden, 38 to 24, and Antioch defeating Warren in the Gurnee games, while Libertyville and Arlington Heights were winning over Wauconda and Barrington at the latter city by scores of 29 to 21 and 21 to 20, respectively. Then the big show moved to Antioch Saturday, where in the afternoon sessions Heights won over Libertyville, 20 to 18, and Antioch defeated Palatine, 37 to 19. All other teams having been eliminated by defeat, Antioch and Heights clashed in the championship game, with the result as stated above. In the battle for third place Palatine defeated Libertyville 34 to 17.

Watson, Maker of Champions.

In commenting upon the excellent work of Coach Watson and his team of champions, the Waukegan Sun printed the following comment in Monday's edition.

"Coach Watson of the Antioch high school has turned out a well organized team this year, considering the fact that he hasn't a large number of lads to choose from. He has three men in his aggregation who are especially valuable, and who will probably be the outstanding stars of the division B schools in the Waukegan tournament next month.

"These men, who took the starring parts in both of Saturday's battles are Nixon, Simpson and Spicer. Of these the first showed the best form in the Saturday battles, and as well has done so all season. Spicer and Simpson are both fast and always wide awake on their job.

"Mr. Watson has the team work of his aggregation worked almost to perfection, and when playing the Palatine squad, they were able to cover the floor easily.

"The evening battle for the championship was by far the best battle in the entire tournament. The score was fairly close all the way with first one team and then the other taking the lead. In the last few minutes of play the lead changed hands quite a few times but at last a free toss and a basket gave the home aggregation a lead which Heights could not overcome.

Heights Player Good Sport.

Jahrling, of the Arlington Heights aggregation, was awarded the trophy given to the player who in the minds of the officials, displayed the best sportsmanship throughout the seasons.

"The officials who worked the tournament picked a first and second all conference team, judged on the merits of the players in the games. The first team consisted of: forwards, Smith, Palatine; Daba, Libertyville; center, Schwenk, Antioch; guards, Nixon, Antioch, and Thall, Arlington Heights.

"The second team lineup is as follows: forwards, Gieske, Palatine; Spicer, Antioch; center, Jahrling, Arlington Heights; guards, Hendee, Libertyville; and Wilson, Antioch.

Antioch Team of Stars.

"That the Antioch team is made up of five stars is shown by the fact that every one of the regular men was placed on one of the championship teams.

"And so with the dope furnished by the week end tournament, it looks as though Antioch, Arlington Heights and Palatine will be the only schools of division B that will cause worry in the coming tournament in the local gym."

Win Four of Seven Trophies.
It may be added that since the organization of the Northwest Conference, Coach Watson's various teams of athletes have won four of the seven trophies offered in football, baseball and basketball.

It would seem that Mr. Watson's work as a coach would need no further commendation. The various trophies won by local high school athletic teams may be seen in the window at the Nixon Candy Store.

Detailed account of tournament games with scores follows:

Antioch 21, Warren 16.

Antioch had little trouble in winning their opening game of the tournament against Warren, although the locals offense was not working as smoothly as it has at other times.

Warren offense did not function as it has in other games and due to the locals strong defense Warren did not hit the ring for a field goal until late in the third quarter.

County T. B. Test Nears Completion

Herds of All Chicago Shippers to Be Tested by March 11, Says Grinnell.

Herds in Lake County delivering milk to Chicago will probably be practically all tested by March 11th, which is the final time given by Dr. Bunderson.

This week there are 5 veterinarians and their helpers working in Lake County. Monday morning Dr. Crabtree, Dr. Strolls and Dr. McKinney, county veterinarians from central Illinois started work for this week in Lake County in addition to the 5 men who were working last week. These 3 men and Dr. Montgomery will probably leave Saturday night to return to their home counties which will leave 4 men next week.

It is hoped that all Chicago shippers who are due for a retest will be tested by the end of next week. Dr. Grinnell expressed the desire to have any Chicago shipper who has not been tested by Wednesday, March 9th, to notify him or the Lake County Farm Bureau at Libertyville and he will see that they are taken care of the first of the next week.

With the bunch of men who have been working at this in Lake County the past few weeks it is possible to skip a few men and if they will call Dr. Grinnell's attention to it he will take care of it at once if they are not tested by Wednesday, March 9.

As soon as the Chicago shippers are taken care of the county is to be worked systematically and all who are not Chicago shippers will be tested as soon as they can be reached. In making this cleanup work all herds who have not had an initial test will be tested. Herds which have not had an initial test and wish to get under Federal supervision right away should make this known by writing to the Farm Bureau office at Libertyville or by calling in person as no telephone orders will be taken on this initial test. Those wishing this initial test should make this known by March 9th.

The last week's work which covered practically all sections of Lake County showed a very favorable improvement. In October 1925 a similar drive was put on. Several outside veterinarians assisted Dr. Grinnell in making this drive. During that week in October 1925, 3065 cattle were tested. Of this number 1237 reacted. This past week a very similar number were tested, there being 2779. Of these only 174 reacted, or 6.3 per cent.

S. E. POLLOCK TO BE MAYORALTY CANDIDATE

Lighting Committee Chairman Resigns as Trustee to Become Candidate for Village President.

President Bartlett Will Not Be Candidate for Re-election.

That he may become candidate for president of the village board of trustees, Samuel E. Pollock, three years boardmember and present chairman of the lighting committee, Tuesday tendered his resignation as trustee and announced his candidacy for the mayoralty of Antioch to succeed George H. Bartlett, present incumbent, who will not be a candidate for re-election. It is said. Mr. Bartlett is now closing his second term as village president.

It was upon the urgent solicitation of Mr. Pollock's friends, who assert he is well qualified for the office, that he has consented to become a candidate. For two years he was a member of the finance committee, serving one year as committee chairman, and during his present term he has been chairman of the lighting committee.

Mr. Pollock's resignation was accepted by the village board at their regular meeting Tuesday night. Other business transacted at the meeting included the fixing of the date for the hearing on the paving of Victoria and Hardin streets for March 15 at the village hall. W. F. Ziegler is now spreading the assessment for the paving work.

"Business Tax" Refunded.

Another very commendable piece of work done by the board Tuesday night was the voting to refund all money that was paid in in compliance with the "business license" ordinance passed by the board last year to raise funds to finance the proposed white way. The project being technically killed several months ago, at least for the time being, the money can not be used for the purpose intended, so it is being returned to those who paid. The vouchers are already made out, Village Clerk Isaacs said yesterday.

Election April 19.

The annual village election will be on Tuesday, April 19, and there will be six village offices to be filled: president, treasurer, three trustees for full term and one to fill vacancy made by the resignation of Mr. Pollock who was elected last spring for a two year term.

"The last day for filing petitions of candidates for village office will be April 4, at midnight, and the law means just what it says," said Harry A. Isaacs, eleven years village clerk of Antioch, who takes considerably more interest in keeping an accurate set of books for the village and making fine cigars than he does in politics.

Trustees whose terms expire this year are: Frank Dunn, J. B. Drom and Rollo Shults, and of course, the village treasurer, J. Ernest Brook, can not be re-elected, or "succeed himself," as they sometimes say, because of the law prohibiting treasurers serving two terms consecutively. Mr. Brook has been a very efficient custodian of the funds of the village.

Trustee Roy Murrie, member of the finance committee, and E. O. Hawkins, chairman of the street and alley committee, were elected last spring and so are still good for another year in office.

Town Election April 5th.

The annual town election for Antioch township will be on Tuesday, April 5. There are only two to elect, a supervisor and one constable. The present supervisor, D. F. Naber, has already made announcement of his candidacy for re-election to that office. One constable is to be elected to fill vacancy.

Mrs. Arthur Lindblade and Mrs. Almon Flynn, of Chetek, Wis., were called here last week on account of the death of their cousin, Mrs. Earl Horton. Hiram Proctor, of Owen, Wis., was also in attendance at the funeral of his niece here last Wednesday.

THE LEADING LADY
by GERALDINE BONNER
Copyright by the DOBBS-MERRILL CO.

PROLOGUE—While despondent over the enforced hiding of her father, Jim Dallas, slayer in self defense of Homer Parkinson, member of an influential family, Sybil Saunders, popular actress, is engaged to play Viola in a charity performance of "Twelfth Night" on Gull Island, on the Maine coast. In the company are Sybil's bosom friend, Anne Tracy, Anne's brother Joe, young waitress, and Aleck Stokes, an actor infatuated with Sybil.

CHAPTER I—After the play, which is a big hit, Wally Shine, official photographer, learns something of the jealousy existing in the company.

CHAPTER II—Hugh Bassett, director of the play, and Anne Tracy's fiancé, tells Joe he has heard he is spying on Sybil in an effort to learn the whereabouts of Jim Dallas and earn the reward offered by the Parkinson family. The boy denies it.

CHAPTER III—Joe Tracy is arranging for a vacation trip. To Anne he betrays his jealousy toward Sybil. Stokes tells Sybil he has news of Jim Dallas, and to secure privacy they arrange to meet in a small summer house.

CHAPTER IV—The sound of a pistol shot starting the assembled company, investigation shows a revolver has been taken from a desk in the library. Flame shot with bullets in with the announcement that Sybil has been shot and her body carried off by the tide.

CHAPTER V—Elena Stokes tells Bassett she saw Sybil shot but did not see her murderer. Stokes notices the shot if Aleck Williams. He arrives with a man seeking a lawyer, and a man seeking a lawyer. All the company is accounted for, with the exception of Joe Tracy, presumably on his trip. Elena gives her evidence, and the authorities arrange so that no one can leave the island.

He crossed to where Anne was sitting by the entrance. She had her back to the room and was looking out at the lights of Hayworth dotting the shore. He stood behind her chair and put his hand on her shoulder. Her fingers stole up and rested on his icy cold. He bent till his head was close to hers and whispered:

"Bear up. Think God this can't touch you in any way."

Her fingers pressed an answer but she said nothing.

Shine came toward them: "Those fellows were lucky who got off this afternoon. I might have gone with them if I'd had the sense."

Anne answered this time:

"Yes, they were more fortunate than we are."

Mrs. Cornell, between sobs, spoke up:

"But even if we were here they can't suspect us. We've got alibis, we're all accounted for. We were all in—"

She realized where she was going and stopped. There was a portentous silence. She almost shouted, pointing out at the channel:

"The tide's falling fast. They can't get into the dock here. How will they make a landing?"

Bassett answered:

"In a cove at the upper end of the island. They've a dock there for low water. They have to make a detour that's all."

Flora, who had been sitting with her hand over her eyes, dropped it and sat erect. Her breath came from her in a loud exclamation that was almost a groan. Every pair of eyes shifted to her, watchful, questioning, apprehensive.

"Do you feel ill, Flora?" said Bassett, moving to her side.

"No—no," she looked wildly about. "But this waiting—it's so awful."

Miss Pinkney suggested a glass of water, but Flora waving a hand as if pushing it away. Stokes rose and moved to a seat beside her.

"They'll be here soon now."

She sank back and closed her eyes. Her husband bent a soubler, sideways look toward her, then laid his hand on one of hers. Her own turned and the thin fingers twisted like clinging roots about his.

"It won't be hard," he reassured. "Just give them a clear account of what you saw."

She waved the other hand in front of her face, like a person in unendurable pain, who makes a vague distracted gesture for silence.

Anne spoke from the door:

"There's a light moving out from the shore."

The statement shook them. There was a simultaneous stir of feet and bodies, a heave of inhaled breaths.

Bassett went to the entrance:

"Yes—that's a launch. They're coming. I must go to meet them."

He looked over the company, the haggard faces all turned toward him. Some of them were an expression of yearning appeal as if he was their only source of strength in this devastating hour:

"Now, remember there's nothing to get scared or rattled about. They'll ask you questions and what you must do is to answer them accurately—not what you think or imagine but what you know. Keep that in the front of your minds. The clearer you are in your statements the quicker you'll get through. And please stay here. Just as you are. They'll probably want to see you right off."

A benumbed silence followed his departure.

parture. Anne moved from the door to a chair nearer the others. Stokes withdrew his hand from Flora's and straightened himself, jerking down his waistcoat and craning his neck up from his collar. The low rippling murmurs of the receding tide were singularly distinct. Suddenly the shrill whistle of a launch pierced the night outside. Mrs. Cornell leaped as if the sound had been a weapon that had stabbed her:

"Oh!" she cried, "why do they do that? Isn't Sybil being murdered enough to stand?"

"For God's sake, keep your mouth shut," Stokes flung at her, glaring.

The savage quality in his voice penetrated Mrs. Cornell's censorious reticence. She shrank and slid the look of a frightened animal at Stokes. Then the silence settled and they sat like those who have looked upon the head of Medusa.

Bassett on the wharf in the cove watched the launch approaching over the glistening floor of water. As it grated against the boards he heard his name in a deep-throated hoarse voice and the big body of the launch lurched over the side. A rough padded hand grasped his, and "Well, Mr. Bassett, the law's got us together again," was growled into his ear.

Two more figures followed him. One was Ramsey, the district attorney. When the vivid light revealed as a man much younger than Williams, tall and narrow-shouldered, with a lean New England visage and a pair of horn spectacles astride a high-bridged nose. The other was disposed of with a casual hand wave and a murmur of "Patrick," brought, it was explained, to take charge of the causeway.

Ramsey, it appeared, knew Gull Island well, having been there several times on legal business for Mr. Driscoll.

As they walked back Bassett told his story. He noticed that the younger man's questions were sharp and to the point and before they had gone half way realized that Ramsey was of a much higher grade of education and intelligence than his counterpart. A smart clasp, he thought, and felt his burden lightened—they could do good teamwork.

Williams observed with grim relish:

"You couldn't have a murder committed in a better place than this—better for us. Once you're on here it's a d-d hard business getting off. These folks are as good as in prison. Now, Mr. Bassett, just where does that causeway lie?"

The channel stretched before them, a shining expanse, ripple-creased, summits of rock emerging. The receding water was like a silver veil being slowly withdrawn, its delicate tissue torn by sharp-edged projections. Bassett pointed beyond the wharf:

"There! Below the water there are steps cut in the rock that lead down to it. The whole stretch won't be clear till nearly midnight."

Williams gave his instructions to the man Patrick—a watch on the causeway, anyone stopped who came from the mainland or attempted to leave the island. Patrick, a silent massive countryman, with a stolid bulldog face, thrust out his chin and nodded. He slouched off, the sound of his heavy boots loud on the rocks. The others turned toward the house, the light from its opened door falling outward in a long golden square.

The occupants of the room heard them and looked at one another. Mrs. Cornell, with clenched hands, slowly stood up, and the rest, like people in church who see a figure rise and simultaneously follow its example, got to their feet.

The three men entered and under the shadow of the gallery paused for a moment surveying the standing figures much as they might have looked at some spectacle arranged for their approval. Bassett, with no precedent to guide him, walked toward his associates and announced:

"Ladies and gentlemen, the authorities have come. Mr. Ramsey and Mr. Williams."

They bowed and then not knowing what to do next, subsided into their seats. The men came forward, moving to the long table, where Williams sat down, fumbling in his pocket for a fountain pen and paper and clearing a space for the taking of notes. Ramsey, surveying the seated assemblage, said:

"This is the whole of your company, Mr. Bassett?"

"All who were here at the time of the murder. Several of the actors and assistants left at five-thirty and Joe Tracy, one of the company, at a quarter to seven."

"You saw them go?"

"I saw the first lot go. I didn't see Tracy. But," he looked at Anne, "this is his sister, Miss Tracy. She probably did."

"Did you, Miss Tracy?" said Ramsey.

Her voice was very low but steady and clear:

"Yes, he went."

"Well, that disposes of them," said Ramsey.

There were a few formalities to go through. A general agreement on the time of the murder—a few minutes before seven o'clock of that, and the interrogation of Mrs. Stokes, the one eyewitness, followed.

She began well, telling the story she had told Bassett. When she described her first view of Sybil running to the edge of the Point, Ramsey interrupted with a question:

"Was she running fast, as if someone was after her, as if she was frightened?"

"Yes, she was running fast, but I don't know whether she was frightened. I wasn't close enough to see anything like that, and I didn't have time to see. Just as I was looking at her she shot came."

"Did you notice the direction it came from?"

"No—it was like a sort of loud snap in the air. I heard it and she staggered."

She staggered along a few steps and went over.

"Did you hear any sounds—footsteps? A person makes a noise on this rocky ground."

"I didn't hear a thing," she leaned toward Ramsey with haggard insistence. "I couldn't hear anything. I was stunned. Mr. Bassett asked me that and you all seem to think I ought to have heard the person—the murderer—or tried to catch him. But I hadn't any sense, I just stood there paralyzed, not grasping what had happened."

"Mr. Bassett says you went out on the rocks and tried to catch the body."

"Oh, yes. Then I came back to life. I ran down into the hollow and out on the rocks as far as I could go. And she was going by on the current—her hair and her dress all whirled about on God, why was I the one to see it?"

Stokes addressed her, his voice low and urgent:

"Flora, just try to answer quietly."

She paid no attention to him, her eyes riveted on Ramsey.

"And then you came back to the house?"

"Yes, but I stood there watching her for a few minutes. I don't know how long, desperate, not knowing what to do. And then I started to run back here and I fell down. I suppose I was shaking so and the rocks were slippery. I think I fell twice, but I don't know. I seemed to be half crazy."

"You saw or heard nothing on your way back?"

"No, no, I keep telling you," her voice grew higher. "I never saw anybody. If anybody was there he must have been hiding. They could have heard me—I was screaming." She turned to the others. "Wasn't I screaming?"

Bassett confirmed her statement and she went on, her voice still higher, the cords in her neck starting out:

"Of course they heard me and hid—got out of the way. Some stranger. We were all in the house, everybody here was in the house. It couldn't have been any of them."

Stokes half rose: "Flora—please!"

She turned silently on him:

"Why shouldn't I say it? I'm not afraid. I was the only person outside and it couldn't have been me." She faced round on Ramsey. "Nobody could think that. Ask them—these people. They'll tell you."

"That's not at all necessary, Mrs. Stokes," Ramsey was mild and suave. "Now, if you'll try to be calm—"

"Calm, calm," she groaned and bent almost double, dropping her face into her hands. Stokes got up, chalk-white in the lamplight:

"My wife's prey well knocked out, Mr. Ramsey."

"Quite understandable, Mr. Stokes. We won't trouble her any more just now. And if the rest of you ladies and gentlemen will refrain from saying what you think or offering suggestions we'll get on a good deal quicker."

They went on to Stokes, who was very clear and composed. He had walked about—down the path to the pine wood and round that end of the house. It was absolutely still and he had heard nobody. He was not sure of the direction of the shot as he had been reading a paper at the time. Like the rest of them he had had no suspicion of anything serious or of course, he would have investigated.

Everybody else was in the house. Ramsey indicated their positions, pointing them out as he explained their whereabouts.

Miss Saunders' movements followed. She had spent the earlier part of the evening sitting on the cliffs with Miss Tracy. Miss Tracy had left her some time after six, Miss Saunders saying she would follow but wanted to see the end of the sunset. No one had seen her come back but she had come back, for shortly before seven Mrs. Cornell had noticed her leaving the house.

Mrs. Cornell, invested with the grisly excitement of the hour, was eager to tell what she knew. She had been standing at the window of her room, and she saw Sybil on the path below passing the end of the balcony. Mrs. Cornell was surprised for it was not far from supper time and Sybil was still in her Viola dress. She had not watched her, but had gone back to lock the trunk. Both she and Miss Pinkney agreed that the shot had followed soon after—about six or seven minutes they thought.

They diverged to the place of the murder, the Point. The last person who had been there was Shine, somewhere round six-thirty, though he couldn't swear to the time. He'd stayed there perhaps ten minutes, walking round, and had then gone up to the garden. As far as he could see the place was deserted. In answer to the question, had he seen anyone on his way back, he said he had seen Mrs. Stokes reading a paper on the balcony.

This ended the interrogations for the time being. The company was told they might retire to their rooms. But they were to understand that they were held on Gull Island for the present, no going off on any pretext or holding communication with anyone on the mainland. Also—and Mr. Ramsey was emphatic—once in their rooms they were to stay in them unless sent for by him. He did not want any wandering about in the halls or talking together.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"CHRIST JESUS" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientists, Sunday, February 27.

The hidden Text was from John 1:17. "The law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in me, believe also in me. Believe in me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me; or else believe me for the very works' sake. Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go into my Father" (John 14:1, 11, 12).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus demonstrated Christ; he proved that Christ is the divine idea of God—the Holy Ghost, or Comforter, revealing the divine Principle, Love, and leading into all truth" (p. 332).

NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

The New Special Sedan
Special Six Chassis
$1485
f.o.b. factory

A New Body Style Reigns in America
Created by Nash

Revealing an alluring French-type rear contour, this ultra-new and arrestingly original body design has now entirely changed American ideas of motor car style.

First exemplified by the new Ambassador and Cavalier models this unique body conception was immediately hailed as the most important creative achievement in the history of American enclosed car craftsmanship.

Today this inimitably distinguished body mode is available in the new Special Sedans just introduced on both the Special Six and Advanced Six chassis at prices of wider popular appeal.

The Special Sedan on the Special Six

The extreme luxury of its interior is emphasized by the gray tufted genuine Chase Velmo Mohair Velvet upholstery, real walnut steering wheel, and select hardware in chaste pattern.

All inside window moldings and door panels are of walnut finish, as is the instrument board and the crowned panel above the instrument board.

The same fittings and appointments grace the larger Advanced Six model and both are powered with the big Nash 7-bearing motor—the world's smoothest type. 4-wheel brakes and 5 disc wheels are standard equipment.

Bird Migration

The reason why birds migrate is a mystery to biologists. They have been studying for hundreds of years to find out and are as much in the dark today as they were 200 years ago, according to Dr. Alexander Wetmore, president of the American Ornithological union.

"Watch Your Time"

The Japanese nation has the characteristic oriental contempt for punctuality, so an annual "time day" has been established with the slogan of "Watch your time" and a suggestion that all persons carrying or possessing timepieces set them regularly.

Foresaw the Telephone

The possibility of telephone or wireless telegraph was evidently in the mind of Galileo, for in 1632 he referred to "the secret art" by which through the sympathy of magnetic needles men might converse at long distance.

Father of Local Man Was Centenarian

Perry S. Cobb Dies in New York at Age of 100.

Perry S. Cobb, the oldest resident of the village of Adams, Jefferson county, New York, and one of the last members of the Cooper Post, G. A. R., died January 25, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fauble Woodall.

He had been in declining health for two years and death was due to the infirmities of old age.

The deceased was the father of Charles E. Cobb, of Antioch, and through numerous visits here with his son, Mr. Cobb was quite well known to many local people.

Only a few months ago, when nearly 100 years old, Mr. Cobb, though ill, was able to sit in a chair on the lawn at his daughter's home while his picture was taken, his only surviving brother, Elijah E. Cobb, 94, standing beside him. The brother, now at the National Soldiers' Home in Virginia, is the father of former Senator George H. Cobb.

Born in 1826.

Perry Cobb was born at Lysander, Onondago county, N. Y., Jan. 13 1826, the son of Joseph and Margaret Soles Cobb. He was one of nine children of whom only one now survives. Longevity was a characteristic of the family, Mr. Cobb's father having lived until his 98th year and his grandfather until 99th. A brother, Eli, died several years ago at the age of 97, and the only surviving brother, Elijah, is now in his 94th year.

His father was born in 1809 and as a boy of 12 assisted in the conduct of the war of 1812, by carrying chains for surveying parties through the wilderness of Jefferson county.

Since he was a small boy Mr. Cobb has resided in Jefferson county, 60 years at Pierrepont Manor, and the past 13 years at Adams. He used to tell of rowing a boat on the St. Lawrence river when that section of the country was almost all forest with here and there a clearing and settler's cabin.

In 1854, he married Miss Ann Dence, who was of French descent, the ceremony being performed at Dexter, by Rev. Asa Saxe. To this union there were eleven children, four of whom seven are now living.

Those surviving are: Mrs. Mary Jane Hogan, Buffalo; Mrs. Margaret Ann Steel-Badgely, Richland, N. Y.; Charles Elijah Cobb, of Antioch, Ill.; Mrs. Emma Susanna Parker, of Mannsville, N. Y.; Mrs. Alma Marie Fletcher, of Anahelm, Calif.; Mrs. Fauble Louise Woodall, of Adams, N. Y.; and Ira Thomas Cobb of West Schuyler, N. Y.

Besides his children he had had 147 grandchildren and great-grandchildren and eleven great-great-grandchildren.

When the Civil War broke out Perry Cobb and three brothers enlisted, Perry in the Tenth New York Heavy Artillery; Elijah in the 156th New York Infantry and John in the Ninth New York Heavy Artillery. John was wounded at the charge at Petersburg when the mine was blown up, was captured and died in Anderson prison. His three brothers served until they were honorably discharged.

Mr. Cobb cast his first vote for president in 1848 for Zachary Taylor and four years later for the Whig candidate. Since that time he has voted a straight Republican ticket and for 75 years did not miss an election. In 1885 he voted for Abraham Lincoln and on the night the war president was assassinated he was standing guard in Washington.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at 10 from the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. W. A. Gardner officiating. Burial was made at Mannsville.

The bearers were Fred Blackstone, William Blackstone, Chester Wright and William Joyner, all members of the Sons of Veterans organization.

SHOWER FOR MISS BANKS

Miss Aneta Wilton gave a miscellaneous shower for Miss Dorothy Banks at the Wilton home on Monday evening, Feb. 21, twelve of her girl friends being present. A dainty luncheon was served.

Miss Banks received many very pretty and useful gifts.

St. Ignatius' Church Notes Episcopal
Kalendar—1st Sunday in Lent.
Wednesday, Friday and Saturday are Ember Days.

The Lenten Season is here and for a period of forty days a penitential season commemorating Our Lord's Fast and Temptation in the wilderness. The season attempts to renew the spiritual vigor of personality that might otherwise be lost without a period of training and discipline of the body to the spirit.

The topic of the sermon next Sunday is, Christ's New Commandment, the text being St. John 13:34. "A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another."

It is hoped that several visiting clergymen may be with us during the Lenten season to give us a message of inspiration and experience that will help retain the life of the spirit during the coming year. How few understand the sublime and esoteric character of the Christian Religion in all its fullness.

It is to be hoped that many will take advantage of the universal spirit of the Lenten season to perhaps gain a new idea of what the Church is all about. Certainly the Church is a haven for sinners and a school for saints, and some never get beyond the third grade religiously and then wonder why they do not understand an intelligent discussion of spiritual things, the Master key to health, beauty, power, money, and character.

Methodist Notes

There will be no services Sunday evening. The Sunday school Conference will be held at Lake Villa to which all Antioch folks are invited. The first meeting is set for three o'clock, this is to be a general period of worship, followed by round table conferences for the workers and friends of the Sunday school. At six o'clock all will sit down to a basket lunch. Coffee will be served by the ladies of Lake Villa Church.

The morning service will be at the usual hour, 10:45. Lenten music will be sung at this service while the sermon will center around the thought of God's Purposes for Man. It will be of special interest to know what God has set man to do and to learn how near man measures up to God's will in his religion, whether it be on the Sabbath or during the week.

The weekly prayer meeting was held in the parsonage on Wednesday. A goodly number were out yet there was room for more. Brother Krahl says it will take quite a crowd to fill the new parsonage.

LESS CRANDALL SURPRISED

Less Crandall was the victim of a very pleasant surprise party last Sunday night on the occasion of his birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Crandall had attended a movie show at Antioch and upon returning to their home at Lake Catherine, Less found a large party of his friends in possession of the house and he had the surprise of his life, the feat being very cleverly planned by his wife. No one has disclosed just what all was done to Mr. Crandall, but many of them have hinted that when they got through with him he knew he had had a birthday, or something. Then the guests gave Less a nice present just to show him it was all in fun and everyone enjoyed a pleasant evening at five hundred, followed by a fine luncheon.

Many regrets were expressed by the guests because of the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, members of the Channel Lake card club, who are spending the winter months at Winter, Wis. Information received here recently in a letter addressed to friends is to the effect that the Smiths are snow-bound in their northern home and that Mr. Smith has been unable to do much fishing, to say nothing of the scarcity of firewood. Friends at the Crandall party all wrote the Smiths a letter in which someone suggested to Harry to save the smoke from the fire he already has and burn that.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Morgensen, Lyle Welch and Ezra Anderson, all of Raymond Center, Wis., were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Anderson.

The confirmation class is in the process of organization. All children between the ages of twelve and sixteen should come and enroll.

New Auto Wash Rack in Operation

Completion of the new wash rack at the Main Garage filling station was announced last week by the proprietor, A. Mapletorpe. Many additions and improvements, not included in the original plans, have been made at the newly erected filling station, making the place of greater beauty and convenience than was at first intended. The newly installed electrically driven equipment in the car wash room is proving to be a great convenience, not only as a time-saver in speeding up the work, but entirely eliminates the drudgery of the old hand-washing methods, besides doing a more thorough job.

HE MADE $40,000 IN JUDITH BASIN!

"A MAN that wants to be independent with a small start," says G. J. Dickson, of Coffee Creek, Montana, in the heart of the Judith Basin, "could never come to a better country than this! Nor meet a more generous and friendly people! We are satisfied and cannot say too much for the country!"

Mr. Dickson has good reason for enthusiasm. He came here empty-handed from Kansas, and is now worth $40,000. He owns 800 acres, and leases 400 more.

His crops average per acre: 18 bus. wheat, 40 bus. oats, a ton of alfalfa, 300 bus. potatoes. In his garden he grows beets, peas, onions, carrots, radishes, beans, cabbage, parsnips, lettuce, cucumbers. He raises some short-horn cattle, Chester white hogs, turkeys, Rhode Island Reds, and his own horses for farming. He gets a $30 cream check every month, and keeps three gallons for home use.

"I like it fine," says Dickson. "The horses feed out all winter. There's no comparison between this locality and the one I came from."

If you want more information about this wonderful country, write Mr. H. E. Hunter, Agricultural Agent, C. M. & St. P. Railway, Room 796, Union Station, Chicago, Illinois.

Incubating the Vacuum Tube

Out of the Ceaseless Efforts of Scientists and Research Engineers Must Come the Improvements That Make the Modern Vacuum Tube What It Is.

By DR. ALFRED N. GOLDSMITH
Chief Broadcast Engineer, Radio Corporation of America.

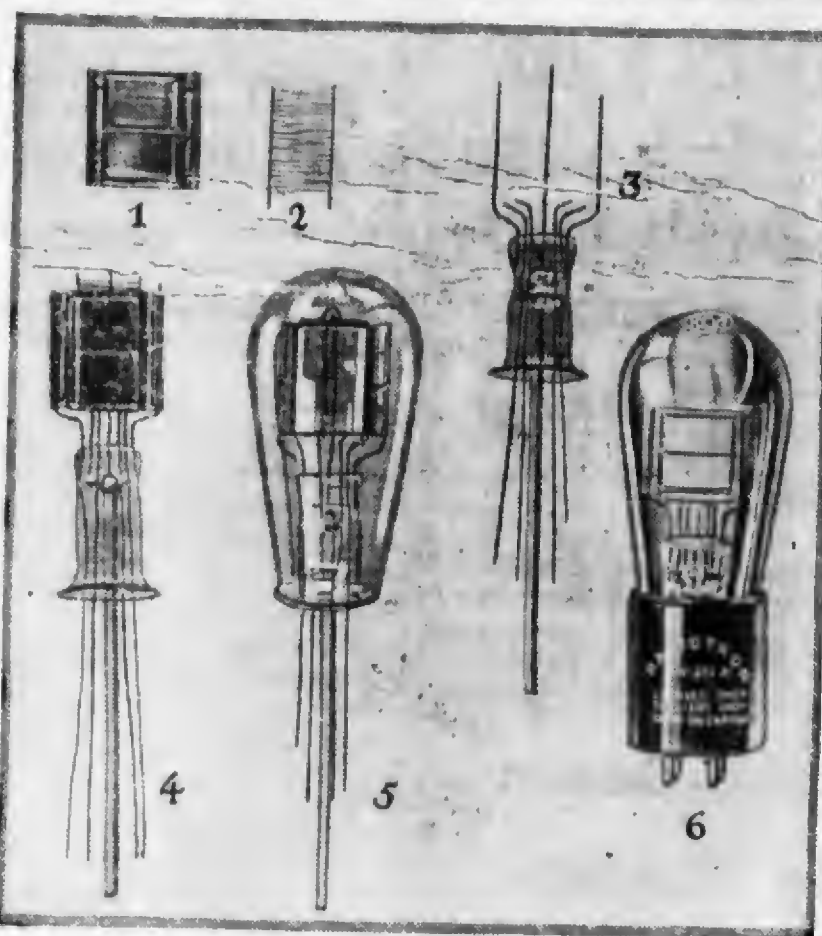

Dr. A. N. Goldsmith

It is said that every bridge exists first in the mind of the civil engineer before it is flung across the river. Likewise, a skyscraper exists in the mind of its architect long before the steel is cleared and the caissons are driven down to bed-rock. Again, every great painting or statue is conceived in its ideal perfection by the artist's fertile mind long before it is realized in material form. And so it is with radio—an achievement in practical form never comes until long after patient and inspired scientists and research engineers have dreamt of new physical principles and methods, followed by tireless experimenting until, despite all discouragements, they have achieved the chosen goal of a newer and a better way of accomplishing that which is most needed in the progress of radio.

Now at least three conditions must be met in order that a suitable product shall reach the ultimate consumer. First, there must be available the undivided services of learned men, with long experience and marked capacity for research, thoroughly acquainted with the problems, and with the de-others must go those practical tasks—tasks far down the long line of research and development. It is more probable that you will find Dr. Langmuir studying a new piece of apparatus for investigating the behavior of the invisible electron, the atom or even larger molecule, or again of films of oil floating on the surface of water, or still again the physical behavior of elaborate chemical compounds, or once more the nature of light emitted by some glowing vapor. These and many other apparently academic subjects—academic today, practical tomorrow—are most likely to call for the attention and interest of this great scientist. Yet in time these seemingly abstract studies become important features of your vacuum tubes or radiotrons and provide for still better radio results.

An "Electric Sponge" Turning from the general to the specific, there is the dry battery radiotron. The filament of this tube as well as that of the leading storage battery tubes, is based upon what might logically be termed an electric sponge. Instead of chemically pure metallic tungsten, with its high operating temperature, relatively limited life and high cost of operation, there has been produced thoriated tungsten in which tiny fragments of the rare element thorium are scattered throughout the tungsten while it is in powdered form and before it has been sintered and drawn out termination, knowledge and inspiration to develop new things and methods. But even the great scientists cannot make bricks without straw. They require elaborate facilities in the way of apparatus and assistants, so that the second point is the material, as the French would say, quite as much as the personnel. Thirdly, there is need for the co-ordination of all research and developmental efforts with those of production which must follow for a successful consummation of the process. In this connection be it noted that so vast is the scope of modern science that no one can do more than to polish one facet of the diamond of scientific knowledge. Left to themselves, the labors of many qualified scientists might be lost either through needless and expending duplication of efforts on the same problem or through the failure so to co-ordinate their activities so as to cover every portion of the field and to explore every nook and cranny of the unsolved problems.

Organized Scientific Research

It is just here that the great industrial organizations come into their own in the field of applied science. It is in this connection that these great organizations can render a real service to society. These huge organizations, because of their magnitude of their operations, can afford to provide elaborate facilities, can place problems before leading scientists, can assign each task to the right man, can co-ordinate efforts so that all parts of a given problem will be covered with the simultaneous and co-ordinated efforts of specialists. What is still more significant, these great industrial organizations can afford to continue year after year, despite discouragements, setbacks and long and costly delays, until the final outcome, be it successful or otherwise. Smaller organizations obviously cannot afford to stand the gruelling tests of patience, with its terrific cost, which is part and parcel of pioneer development.

Now in no other portion of the field of radio are research and development so important as in the radiotron or vacuum tube. Consider, for example, the work of Dr. Irving Langmuir, who is known throughout the world for his scientific achievements. You are not likely to find Dr. Langmuir in his Schenectady research laboratory placing vacuum tubes in a receiving set nor again studying the characteristics of tubes with an array of meters. To into filament wire one-half a thousandth of an inch in diameter.

Now thorium has the peculiar property when heated of pouring forth a flood of electrical particles or electrons. It is, however, mechanically unsuited for filament use by itself. It would melt too easily for one thing. However, by placing the thorium in diffused form in the tungsten a filament of better mechanical and thermal properties is obtained while still retaining the electronic properties of thorium.

Radiotron Standard Tube

The thorium in the thoriated tungsten filament forms a layer of really unimaginable thinness on the filament. This layer of film is very quickly driven off, but the heat just as quickly boils out fresh thorium to the surface, there to form a fresh coating. And so it goes. The action is much like that of a sponge soaked with water which, reaching the surface, evaporates by the heat of the sun, yet the sponge all the while is being squeezed just enough to keep the surface constantly moistened with a fresh supply of water.

There is much that the present day vacuum tube owes to Dr. Irving Langmuir, as well as other scientists and research engineers who work in research laboratories devoted to vacuum tube development. It was Dr. Langmuir who in the course of his investigations of the so-called "Edison effect" in incandescent lamps found that as the vacuum was made higher and higher the available electronic emission from the hot filament became steadily greater until finally when a vacuum tube was immersed in liquid air giving an extremely high vacuum the emission was ten thousand times its original value. This was an astonishing result, but when the experiments were repeated with another lot of filament wire no such increase in emission developed.

In conclusion, it is evident that the really good vacuum tube has a pedigree that extends back to the research laboratory. It has been fathered by scientists of note. Its infancy has been spent in the laboratory; its childhood has been passed in the testing laboratory at the hands of none too kind skeptics; its youth has been devoted to production in the largest tube factories in the world, and in its prime of life it is ready to render the service which will bring credit to its sponsors.

High School Notes

Last week was the ending of the jungle volleyball league conducted in the boys' gym class. The Hyman team, captained by John Freeman, easily won first place. Plans are already being laid for a new and better tournament, and interest will be keen.

The March Parent-Teacher's meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, March 8th. An attractive program is now being arranged.

Senior class committees are actively engaged in preparing activities for graduation. Members are trying hard to select a good class play. Class day exercises are also being planned, as well as a class picnic.

Region of Intense Heat

The climate of Death valley, Calif., is due in a measure to its configuration. It consists of a long, narrow parallel valley, considerably below sea level. The Panamint mountains shut out from it the moist winds of the Pacific, so that in August there is less than one-half of 1 per cent of moisture in the atmosphere.

Two Principles

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL discovered an electrical principle upon which a great communications art has been founded.

Those who undertook to give practical value to his discovery likewise left to their successors a principle of service, that has been developed into an intercommunicating system of over 17,000,000 telephones.

Both of these principles were built upon and developed with the same objective,—that of enabling men to talk one to another easily, conveniently, cheaply. With nation-wide telephone service already an accomplished fact, these principles still continue to act and react upon each other, producing new ideals of service, new goals toward which to strive.

Allendale Farm School, Lake Villa

On Saturday afternoon the 95's traveled to Lake Forest to defeat the Young Men's Club by a 34 to 18 score. Eddie Meyers and George Knee each scored 10 points for high scoring honors.

Following the Lake Forest game, Allendale teams journey to Evanston and were defeated by the True-Blue Y-Nots of the Y. M. C. A. by 16 to 14 score. The Evanston squad is composed of former high school players and are again figured to win the lightweight championship of Cook county.

The Allendale 95's won a fast and thrilling game from the Waukegan Y. M. C. A. Indians on Thursday evening at Allendale by a 24 to 20 score. Waukegan collected six points in the first few minutes before the home boys knew what it was all about. Near the end of the first period baskets by Schneider, Kee and George tied the score. In the second quarter Allendale ran up 11 points while the Y boys were making four, ending the half at 17 to 10. The third quarter was all Waukegan's for five baskets, all by Caldwell, made the visitor's count 20, while Allendale made one basket, trailing the Y team at the end of the third quarter by one point. Close guarding by both teams kept the score in Waukegan's favor, 20 to 19, until the last two minutes of play when Kee made a free throw to tie the score. With but a little more than one minute to play baskets by Wittkind and Kee gave Allendale the game, 24 to 20. This was Waukegan's first defeat this season.

Scots Early Builders

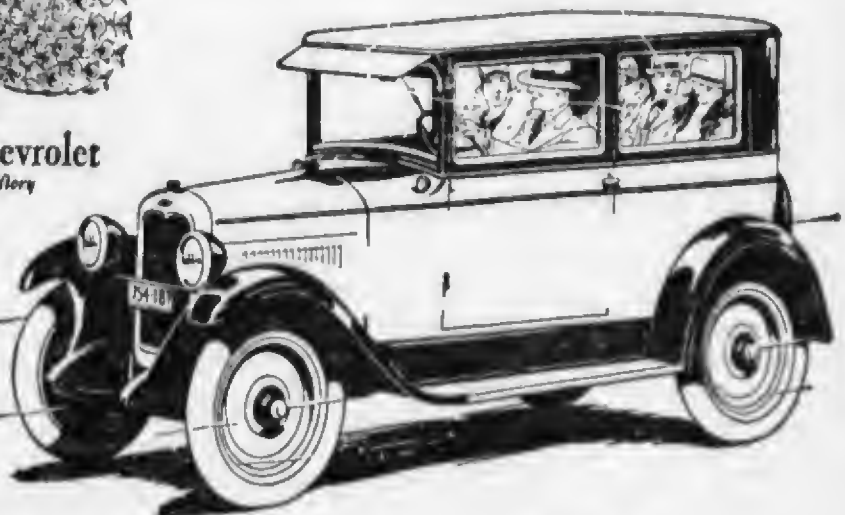

The first concrete pavement known was built in 1865 in Inverness, Scotland. The oldest one in America is in Bellefontaine, Ohio. It was built in 1892, and is still in use.

Poet's Error

Literally "derring do" means "daring to do." But Spenser mistakenly used it as a noun phrase and it has been popularly used ever since to mean daring feats or desperate courage. Spenser says: "Dread for his derring do and bloody deed."—Futh Editor Magazine.

Antioch 37, Palatine 19.

Antioch expected a much harder game against Palatine, due to the hard fought battles that had taken place during the regular schedule, but Palatine proved easy as they were not hitting on all four and the locals couldn't miss.

Antioch's team work and accuracy in hitting the ring was the best shown so far this season and due to this fact the score was rather one-sided.

Deverman and Grandy at the guard positions played the best game for Palatine.

Antioch 40, Arlington Heights 37.

Heights won the way into the final game defeating Libertyville in the afternoon 20 to 15 in an overtime game. Arlington was able to use most of their second team men and win this game while saving their regulars for the hard game at night. This piece of strategy on their part almost won the championship for them as the local boys were almost played out, but they would not give up until the final gun sounded.

This game was one of the closest and hardest fought ever played on the Antioch floor and kept the large crowd in a constant uproar.

With first one team and then the other ahead by one point the result was always in doubt until Antioch gained a three point lead with two minutes to play and retained that lead until the end.

Again Schwenk, Spier and Nixon proved their all star ability by securing 18 baskets between them with 10 of the 18 being collected by Spier.

Thal and Wahl, of Arlington kept their team in the running by sinking long shots and this almost won the game for them.
